

May Cost Human Rights

Herter Cautions Against Reform in Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter cautioned Latin American governments today against rushing ahead with economic reforms at the cost of suppressing human rights and freedoms.

Herter's remarks, a thinly veiled thrust at Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban government, came in a speech prepared for the 21-nation Organization of American States.

Commemorating Pan American Day, Herter also said that "perpetuation in power, and the exercise of power without a fixed term" are clearly contrary to democratic order in the Americas.

This also seemed to be a jab at Castro, who has not yet called for free elections in Cuba, as well as Dominican strongman Rafael Trujillo, who has ruled his nation in various ways for 30 years.

Herter, without mentioning Castro or Cuba, said "drastic revisions in existing social, economic and political institutions" may be needed within the hemisphere.

Castro has pledged sweeping reforms in Cuba will be his goal. But Herter has charged him with muzzling the opposition and clamping down against press critics.

A lifting of living standards should be a proper goal of Latin American countries, Herter said, in order to eventually eliminate poverty as well as ignorance.

But, he added, speaking of these goals: "They should be achieved in liberty, and with a dedication to international peace and harmonious cooperation as reflected in the guiding principles of the Organization of American States."

"A partial success in improving the living standards of the individual citizen is not enough. The achievement of material progress, for example, falls short of the need unless it is accompanied by the equally important attainment of liberty based upon respect for human rights and representative democracy."

Herter said in his view it is wrong for Latin American governments to pledge to abide by lofty principles in international relations while refusing to put into effect similar rights in their homeland.

Herter told the delegates that President Eisenhower's trip to South America made clear that a "new sense of urgency" is evident in the drive to develop the hemisphere.

Herter contended that the solid achievements of inter-American cooperation have been less noticed than they should be because controversy and conflict always provide greater news.

Citizens of all the Americas, he said, should keep in mind the great ideological struggle between communism and democracy around the world.

In Latin America, Herter said, voters would never voluntarily accept such red tyranny since it would be a denial of cherished American principles — and therefore could not be allowed to exist.

Optimists Hear Breakfast Talk By Mr. Durley

James Durley was the speaker at the Breakfast Optimist club Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Pacific Cafe, at which time he explained the School Bond issue which will be voted on May 3.

Durley outlined the projects planned for school buildings if the bond issue passes, the largest of which is the new elementary school at Seventh and Warren at a cost of $842,897.10 which will have 26 rooms to accommodate 900 children. This, he pointed out, will relieve the greatly crowded condition now existing in West Sedalia Schools. This bond issue, he said, will have monies set up for each district and monies will have to be spent in that district and for the purpose for which they were voted. They cannot be spent anywhere else for any other purpose.

The other buildings included will be a new gymnasium and classrooms at Smith-Cotton and rooms on the present building. Durley said, new combination of gymnasium, auditorium and cafeteria at Jefferson, and improvements on other buildings.

He explained that the cost will be 35 cents on the $100 assessed valuation and explained that the assessed valuation is one-third of the actual market valuation. The average will be 75c per month, or $9 per year. Much of the money to be spent will remain in Sedalia. It will take, he said, an estimated 140,000 man hours, much of which will be done by local people.

The Breakfast Optimist Club went on record as unanimously supporting the School Bond Issue.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. D. C. Proctor, president, and invocation was led by Gerald Cecil. Cecil also led the singing with Glenda Lewis as accompanist.

Bob Johnson, member of the school board, was a guest.

CAB 'Taking Pot Shots' Symington Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) Tuesday accused the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) of "taking pot shots" at E. R. Quesada, head of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

Symington's criticism was made in the Senate after Sen. Vance Hartke (D-Ind) asked again for a public statement from Quesada explaining the FAA refusal to ground a 1 Electra turboprop planes pending reinspection.

Symington said Lockheed, manufacturer of the Electra, is spending 25 million dollars in a series of tests and inspections to assure the safety of the plane.

He also described Quesada as one of the ablest and most patriotic public officials he has ever known.

Then Symington added: "We have two agencies, one with the responsibility and authority attempting to do the job and one without responsibility and authority, criticizing in effect, the job that the other agency is trying to do."

"I am not impressed with their attempts to take pot shots at the FAA action because I know they have made a real effort to ascertain the cause of the problem."

Symington said he conceded he does not know whether the FAA decisions against grounding the Electras is right, but added: "I do know it is up to the FAA to make the decision."

Sedalia Radar Car Goes Back Into Day And Night Operation

The Sedalia Police Department radar car has been put back into service and will be continued to be used until local traffic begins to slow down and operate within the speed limits. The radar will be in operation day and night. Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin announced Tuesday night.

Tuesday 22 warnings were given by the police to persons operating barely above the speed limit, while three summons were issued for appearance in police court to drivers whose speed was far in excess of the speed limit.

Chief Hamlin said that in the past two weeks some motorists have "kinda lost the sense of speed on the city streets and it has become necessary to take immediate action to slow down these drivers. It is not our desire to make wholesale arrests, but if necessary it will be done."

"We are issuing some warnings to those whose speed has just slipped over the limit, but summons will be given those whose speeds are too far over the limit," Hamlin reported.

What Happens

Four new class rooms on the present Smith - Cotton building would be the fourth project, two up and two down.

Whittier cafeteria is also poor standard, and would be lengthened 15 feet, with a new kitchen installed for the fifth project.

The sixth project would be a new cafeteria at Mark Twain. The cafeteria there is extremely crowded and very unsafe. The only other exit except through a hallway and up the stairs would be through the boiler room, which in case of disaster would be the most dangerous place in the building. Three tables of children now eat in the hallway.

The plans are being made for anticipated growth in school population. Schien said, who pointed out that it is wise to prepare now so such a condition as faces Sedalia at present will be taken care of.

Schien, was introduced by Charles Hurtt, a member of the school board, who praised Schien for his wonderful service to the community in accepting the chairmanship of the steering committee and his fine presentation of the great needs in the schools.

The meeting was presided over by Bob Lindstrom, president, with invocation by Lee Deason. Charles Hanna led the singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Guests introduced were T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, guest of Harold Barrick, and Ted Sebrum, Kansas City, guest of Bob Lindstrom.

The Optimist Club, at the request of Judge Frank Armstrong, took a straw vote on the coming School Bond election and voted unanimously for it.

The club, also, voted to build a float for the Centennial parade. Bicycle Safety Week was discussed. Police Chief Ralph Hamlin is chairman, and there is a bicycle rodeo and safety check planned for this weekend.

Considerable damage resulted to the east railing of Flat Creek bridge on South U. S. Highway 65 about 12:30 a.m. Wednesday, when struck by a car driven by William Gilbert Finley, 31, of Boonville. Finley, who was alone, escaped injury.

Finley, who was headed north on the highway, told State Trooper Pete Stohr that he dozed at the wheel and when he saw the bridge he jerked his steering wheel, the left rear sideswiping the west rail of the bridge on the south end. The car swerved across the bridge and struck the rail on the east side on the north end knocking out three iron posts. The front end of the car was extensively damaged, the right front tire blown out and the front wheel damaged. The left rear tire also blew out when that portion of the car hit the rail on the west side.

Finley was enroute to Boonville where he is an instructor at the Kemper Military Academy. The car, a 1954 Chevrolet coach, was towed to Sedalia by the Parks Service Station wrecker.

Twelve Shetland Ponies To Perform at State Fair

Twelve "smoke-eating Shetland ponies performing difficult maneuvers with adding machine accuracy will appear at the Missouri State Fair Aug. 20-28.

These popular ponies-a part of the Victor Adding Machine Co. Six-Pony-Hitch-put on a fast stepping exhibition of teamwork and skill that even outshines the brilliance of their chrome plated harnesses and flashy replicas of an antique fire engine steam pumper and hook-and-ladder wagon.

In addition to the performances of equine prowess, Victor Adding Machine Co. is bringing for the first appearance at any fair an exact reproduction of an 1899 firehouse. The station will not only serve to quarter the ponies, but will also be an attraction in itself. Complete with potbellied stove, cuspidor, sliding pole, ro top desk and the ever present checkerboard, the Victor fire station brings to life the forgotten era when the sound of the fire alarm was the highlight of activity in many an American city and town.

This look into American heritage will be open free to the public during the operating hours of the fair.

A part of the display will be the actual wagons drawn by the ponies during the performance. Authentic five-eights scale models of an old time steam pumper fire engine and hook-and-ladder wagon, these wagons add to the excitement wherever the ponies appear.

The ponies-the real stars of the Victor Fire Department-have been trained to respond as one to their driver's every command. Raised on Fernwood Farm, Barrington, Ill., (just north of Chicago), they are placed in training when two years old.

During their first sex weeks they are taught to stop, turn and back up.

Next, the Shetlands are paired and taught to work as a team. Gradually the group steps up to four and finally to a complete six pony hitch. At the end of the six months intensive training, they are ready to ride the show circuit.

The ponies range from 42 to 46 inches in height and weigh from 350 to 450 pounds. The lightest pair leads and does most of the running. The medium or middle pair are classified as the swing team and turn the wagon. The heaviest two, known as wheel ponies, do most of the pulling and supply the weight necessary to permit the driver to make quick stops.

Colie Ervin, secretary of the fair, said to day a special location would be provided for the old time fire house, directly west of the Administration Building. These teams were hosted by the late showman Mike Todd in Madison Square Gardens. Beside the tankard of the gardens, these ponies are familiar with the surface of many of the larger shows of the U.S.A. and Canada.

Now with the reproduction of the old fire house for stabling, they should be an exhibition that both young and old will not want to miss at the 1960 Missouri State Fair.
